REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

To the School Board and Citizens of Candia, N. H.:

Herewith I submit my first annual report and the fourth in the series of reports of Superintendents.

When in September I entered upon the duties of my office as superintendent of schools of the union of which your district is a part, it was not without a considerable knowledge of the amount of work involved, and a fair idea of the gravity of the situation in which our schools are placed at the present time.

The educational bill that passed the legislature and was approved March, 1919, marks an important epoch in the progress of education in our state. Every citizen should be proud that such a statement of educational policy has been made. This declaration places upon the local officials as well as those of the state the gravest responsibilities. The state and the local school district have become partners in a mighty business undertaking.

School boards must now provide "standard elementary schools for at least thirty-six weeks in each year, at such places in the district as will best serve the interests of education and give to all the pupils within the district as nearly equal advantages as are practicable." "A standard school as that terms is used in this act is one (1) maintained for at least 36 weeks in each year, (2) in a suitable and sanitary building, (3) equipped with approved furniture, books, maps and other necessary appliances, (4) taught by an approved teacher, (5) directed and supervised by an approved superintendent, (6) with suitable provision for the care of the health and welfare of all pupils."

The school children must learn as much as possible the privileges, duties and responsibilities of their future citizenship. We must have teachers who are competent for such instruction and fired with zeal and devotion to so high a calling.

The School Board and the superintendent have been endeavoring to administer the schools so as to accord with all provisions of law, to receive the approval of state authorities, and as fast as circumstances will permit to build up a school system that may render the greatest service possible to the community.

School books, supplies and apparatus have been selected and purchased by the superintendent (with the approval of the School Board) with a view to meeting the requirements of the elementary program of studies. The superintendent has outlined for each teacher a weekly schedule of recitations so that as much of the state program can be performed as the teaching ability, the class-room facilities and the equipment will allow. Next September the full work of the first six grades in all prescribed studies should be in operation.

The teachers have had instructions given them concerning the methods they shall employ in conducting the school work and the time allotment to the several studies has been carefully arranged so that the essentials may not be overlooked or slighted.

Elimination of wasted time and duplicated effort has been secured in several particulars.

Through the spring standardized tests in the fundamental branches will be made and a systematic arrangement for constantly testing out results, for investigating and remedying defects will be instituted.

Soap, wash-basins and paper toweling have been procured, and in some rooms endeavor has been made to have the pupils supply themselves with individual soap and towel. A tea-kettle or a double boiler should be placed in each room and kept on the stove to supply moisture for the atmosphere; warm water for washing and the preparation of noon luncheon. At the South school a beginning in serving a hot dish at the noon hour has been made. It is hoped that parents will aid us in making this one of the most important and most instructive as well as most pleasing features of the school work. Not only does the warm dinner eaten by children, grouped as in a family, with proper insistence on good manners, clean faces and hands, the use of the fork instead of the fingers and under the eye of a watchful teacher, mean much for their physical welfare, but also affords a great opportunity to teach etiquette and good table manners effectively, and to give instruction in the selection and preparation of meals. The work done by the pupils is highly educative.

New flags have been purchased to replace those no longer serviceable. Appropriate patriotic exercises and the flag salute are parts of the daily routine. To inculcate the love of country and to foster intelligent patriotism, the study of civics, of American ideals and institutions, of how the town, the state and the nation are ruled, is required.

Physical exercises and remedial drills are included in the daily program, at recesses and at noon intermission the plays and games are so far as now possible under the careful supervision of the teachers.

Several infractions of school attendance laws and the conditions affecting the welfare of the pupils have been investigated and in many cases satisfactory adjustment has been made.

The law imposes full responsibility on the parent and a penalty is exacted for non-compliance. There should be little reason in an intelligent community for resorting to legal measures in order to secure regular attendance of pupils. They should be valuable hours which boys and girls spend in the school room. Tardinesses are far too common. Very seldom is a case of tardiness excusable. The tardy school pupil becomes often the shiftless, irresponsible citizen, the unbusiness-like man, the negligent woman. Is it not possible to obtain greater co-operation on this matter so that a case of tardiness will become extremely rare?

The two most important problems confronting the district and pressing for early settlement are: first, the great difficulty of obtaining and retaining the services of competent and reliable teachers; second, the method to be employed in meeting the requirements of the new law relative to the approval of rural school buildings.

The present and growing scarcity of qualified teachers has become one of the most alarming tendencies of our time. Thinking men and women of all walks in life show much concern, and rightly. Unless a solution is soon found, our beloved nation will suffer severely and another generation, ignorant of the best American ideals, robbed of their birthright of knowledge and wisdom accumulated through ages, incompetent, untrained and unfit, will arise in our places. This difficulty we cannot settle by merely raising salaries. Teachers are not commodities to be bought and sold on the market. We must improve their living conditions, render them respectful homage for their profession. We must encourage length of service in one position. We must make them feel that they are important factors in the community life. When praise is due them, we must see that they receive it; where they are found at fault, we must temper just, fair criticism with encouragement to them to rectify the error, and to improve as they serve. We must expect high character, efficient training, professional spirit, loyalty to American ideals, enthusiasm for the work at hand, capacity to discipline youth, sympathetic feeling for pupil and parent. We must, on the other hand, expect to contribute liberally to the support of those who have our children in their charge. We must educate our girls; then see that those adapted to the work of teaching reach the normal schools, and then return to lead our boys and girls along the road of enlightenment and intelligence.

The proper housing of pupils is a problem that presses for immediate solution. The Act of 1919 requires that a standard school shall be maintained in "a suitable and sanitary building." Rural school buildings, unless constructed recently require extensive alterations, and in most cases additions to satisfy the regulations of the State Board relative to heating, lighting, ventilation, floors, toilets, painting, sanitary arrangements and equipment. Some carefully devised plan must soon be adopted.

In arriving at any decision the approximate cost must be ascertained. No less important, however, are the advantages and the disadvantages viewed from the standpoint of educational progress or from that of the physical welfare and the comfort of the pupils. Among several possible plans the following may be roughly stated:

1. Keep the schools as they are; remodel and build additions wherever necessary; equip each building to meet full requirements and make provision for instruction in all courses of the state program, including the practical arts courses; avoid transportation so far as possible. This plan has several disadvantages. It will make educational progress and careful grading more difficult. It will require a much greater amount of equipment and add materially to current expenditures. It will make it constantly more difficult to secure teachers who invariably prefer graded village schools to the mixed rural school. It usually, on the other hand, avoids a large amount of transportation.

2. Plan for three school centers: one at East Candia, one at High street, and one near the Corner. This plan would make possible considerable educational advancement. It would make for economy of equipment, for much better grading and higher standards of attainment. It would require the construction of at least one building. Besides, considerable transportation would be unavoidable.

3. Plan for two centers. This would differ from plan two in that it would involve the closing of the High Street school. A large amount of transportation would be necessary if plan three were put into effect. The distances which some pupils would have to travel would make considerable hardship for them and their parents.

Whatever plan is followed, a large amount of remodeling or building will be necessary before a satisfactory condition can be reached. The Corner, East, High Street, and Colcord school buildings will demand large outlay and extensive alterations to bring them to standard requirement. The South Road and the Patten Hill schools are in more satisfactory condition but both would require a number of changes.

The superintendent feels that every constructive suggestion that can be given by the citizens should be welcomed. The new law is based on business principles. Its spirit is democratic, and calls for the co-operation of every parent and citizen in carrying it out as intended by those who framed it. In administering our local situation let us all give the best thought of which we are capable, and work out a plan which will make it possible to develop a system of schools of which every citizen may be proud and to house our schools in buildings, "suitable and sanitary," such as will be worthy of the town and the community.

Although I have but just begun my work in your district, I must here give expression to the appreciation I feel toward the teachers for their endeavors to understand and to carry out my plans; to the School Board members for their frank and honest co-operation, and to the citizens who have helped in any way to make the school work successful and efficient.

Respectfully submitted,

ALBERT T. LANE,
Superintendent of Schools.

SCHOOL BOARD REPORT.

(From February 1, 1919, to August 31, 1919.)

There was so much sickness in our schools for the winter and spring term, that the children have not made as good progress as in other years. Our school year had only thirty weeks of school, and every school was closed on account of sickness some part of the term. One school had to be kept in session until the last of July. Under such circumstances the pupils could not make the progress they would have done. But we think if the parents would only take an interest and visit the schools and look over the register they would all make a greater effort to have their children have less tardy marks. It is hard for small children to walk a long distance to school, but if they could be taught the advantage of a good, clean register we would not find so many absent and tardy marks. We wish each school in town would try to see how many they can have on the roll of honor. The teachers can do much better work to see every boy and girl at their desk.

The fall term opened with Superintendent Albert T. Lane in charge.
